*Your Plan Benefits are based on who provides your dental services.

If you see a Participating Provider, your Plan Benefits are based on MAC. MAC stands for Maximum Allowable Charge, which is a discounted fee negotiated between us and a Participating Provider. There is usually a difference between the amount your Provider actually charges for a service, and how much of that billed charge the Provider has agreed to accept as payment in full for services under a Participating Provider contract. If you see a Participating Provider, your plan pays a percentage of MAC, and you are not responsible for any billed amounts above the MAC allowance.

If you see a Nonparticipating Provider, your Plan Benefits are based on MAA: MAA stands for Maximum Allowable Amount. There is usually a difference between the amount your Provider actually charges for a service, and how much of that billed charge we allow as the Maximum Allowable Amount. Your plan pays a percentage of the MAA rather than a percentage of the billed charge. If your Provider charges more than the MAA, you are responsible for the difference between the billed charge and the MAA.
