

RON ECKLOFF is a Certified Financial Planner™ professional and has worked in financial services for over 30 years. He is a Qualified Member of Kingdom Advisors, formerly known as Christian Financial Professionals Network. He and his wife, Kathy, reside in Kearney, Nebraska. They have four children.

"Finances for Today, Tomorrow and Eternity" will help you understand the most important issues to consider when dealing with your finances. You will gain a proper perspective when making financial decisions and know how to make good choices with the money you have. The principles found within these pages do not discuss specific financial products, but they do withstand the test of time.

The book is written from a biblical perspective, yet you will find practical applications that will apply to you, whether you consider yourself a Christian or not. My hope is that after you finish reading this book, you will gain new insights and a freedom to enjoy the resources you have been entrusted with.
